Implicitly linking present administration to US, Lacerda declared "mortal error" of "Americans, State Department, Pentagon, CIA," and American companies was to think their presence in Brazil and Latin America assured by "promoting and sustaining military regimes." Lacerda asked for quid pro quo guarantee of "free honest and direct" election in 1970. Said was "impossible" accept permanence of indirect election system.

4. Lacerda claimed only way out for Brazil was through broad opposition front (Frente Ampla) which he said combined Kubitschek's ideas of development and quoted as saying government did not have least intention of responding to attacks. General Moniz de Aragão reportedly may be punished for answering Lacerda in O Globo, since administration does not want add fuel to fire. Most of press, however, considered Deputy Amaral Neto as Costa e Silva's unofficial spokesman, and he reportedly was given anti-Lacerda information in order counter attack in Chamber. This confirmed by Emboffice contacts in Congress.

7. Lacerda articles major conversation piece in Congress. João Herculino (MDB-Minas Gerais) told Emboff much talk on subject, but saw little effect on MDB. Thought status of Frente Ampla would not be boosted much. Called controversy typical Lacerda "noise-making." Paulo Macarini (MDB-Santa Catarina) felt Lacerda's articles well planned in advance and that this beginning of long-term campaign by Lacerda attempt topple Costa e Silva. Macarini did not see much chance for success. Ezequias Costa (ARENA-Piaui) said both MDB and ARENA interested and reading Lacerda articles and press comment thereon. Lacerda opening. Costa, however, felt Lacerda doing service to Brazil by pushing government toward "re-democratization."

8. Comment: (A) Latest Lacerda harangue significant for its direct attack on military role in politics. With this "civilista" ploy, perennial stormy petrel seeking capitalize on amorphous desire for eventual return to normal civilian rule, which he undoubtedly feels will increase with time. Also apparently aiming at "back to barracks" sentiment in military, which he, at least, must believe exists. Although general feeling here is that Lacerda no longer has much military backing, his supporters feeding line to press that articles favorably received by military circles. (B) Reactivation, or formalization, of Frente Ampla apparently coming about but without much support from Lacerda's traditional ex-UDN base, most of whose members now comfortably ensconced in administration camp. More moderate members of MDB, including its President Oscar Passos, have condemned Frente, and Lacerda may be forced into courting radical fringes of two parties, both left and right. Salient
